

PARKS

Parco Ciani

The Ciani Park is Lugano's green pearl. Located near the historic centre and fronting on Lake Ceresio, it covers a surface of 63,000 square meters. The park is decorated with paths shaded by century-old trees that wind around flower beds, velvety green lawns and small squares that invite you to take a rest. Sculptures and fountains decorate the paths. The park is frequented by locals and tourists alike who admire the colorful flowers, the rare, majestic and exotic species of trees, and the interplay of light and shade created by the vegetation. The Villa Ciani is also a spectacular sight.

MUSEUMS

MUSEC

Located on Lugano's lakeside in the historic Villa Malpensata, the MUSEC - Lugano's Museum of Cultures - offers a rich program of exhibitions and events dedicated to ethnic and oriental arts, photography, modern and contemporary art. The "Spazio Maraini" is entirely dedicated to historical and contemporary photography. The "Spazio Mostre" hosts major exhibitions on two floors, whereas the "Spazio Cielo" allows you to discover new collections or contemporary artists. In addition, the "Spazio Tesoro" (with free admission) presents highlights from the numerous permanent collections.

VILLAGES

Indemini

"This village, which is half-empty for three-quarters of the year, transforms itself into a sort of living museum in the touristy summer months and has preserved itself over the centuries despite the incessant remaking and restoring. One can see that its residents were skilled masons and builders (and as such were seasonal emigrants in Italy and later in other Swiss Cantons) in addition to being farmers. This is what makes Indemini fascinating." This 1960s description of Virgilio Gilardoni, one of Ticino's greatest art historians, is still valid today. Indemini is considered an extraordinary example of popular architecture.
